liligo.com launches the first European flight search application for iPad

The travel search engine reaffirms its commitment to travellers “on the go”. Its airline ticket search service is now available in a version compatible with the iPad.

After the success of liligo for iPhone, launched in January of 2010 (more than 150 000 downloads), liligo.com uses the iPad to affirm its main commitment: to support their users while travel planning with innovative services.

Regardless of where they are at any moment, travellers with an iPad can search for flight offers in 30 seconds from more than 250 travel sites, including all the low cost ones. The user, once finding an attractive deal, is redirected to the supplier site instantly to complete the reservation.

liligo for iPad is the first European application to offer such a service on the latest Apple device. The application is free to download and available in 4 languages (English, French, Spanish, Italian).

The plus side of liligo for iPad:

- > Users can find the best offers found by the millions of other liligo.com users on a daily basis, from their departure city.
- > They enjoy the best of liligo.com’s technology on the iPad for finding the best deal: numerous filters that allow them to find custom airline tickets, “flexible dates” (search +/- 3 days), “combined low cost” (best price by combining two low cost companies), nearby airports (more than 3000 secondary airports are included in results).
- > They can share search results by e-mail with their friends or family and find them later on other devices (mobile, computer).
- > In a few seconds, they are able to set up personalised daily e-mail alerts to follow the price evolution for their favourite routes.
- > To save time, the recent searches are automatically saved and easily accessible.
